

PEACE ANSWER TAKEN TO THE QUEEN

Rumors of a War Between England and Russia==The Volunteers.

ENGLAND AND RUSSIA

Another War in Sight Over Railroad Extension.

British Battleships to be Mobilized for Speedy Movement in Case the Bear Shows His Claws.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—That an extreme diplomatic tension exists between St. Petersburg and London is generally admitted today, though officials depreciate the alarmists' report current yesterday. It is hoped the firmer stand adopted by Lord Salisbury in the last few days, which it seems is already creating some excitement at St. Petersburg, will have the desired effect in arriving at Russian aggressiveness. It is felt both here and on the continent, that the outcome of the dispute in regard to the new Chwang railroad extension has reached the crucial point of the success or failure of Great Britain's policy of "open door." As evidence of the fact that Great Britain appreciates the gravity of the situation, the Associated Press learns that the admiralty is preparing for all emergencies and it will soon be ready to mobilize.

MAY NOT SEE PORTO RICO

The Fifth Illinois Regiment Again in Hard Luck.

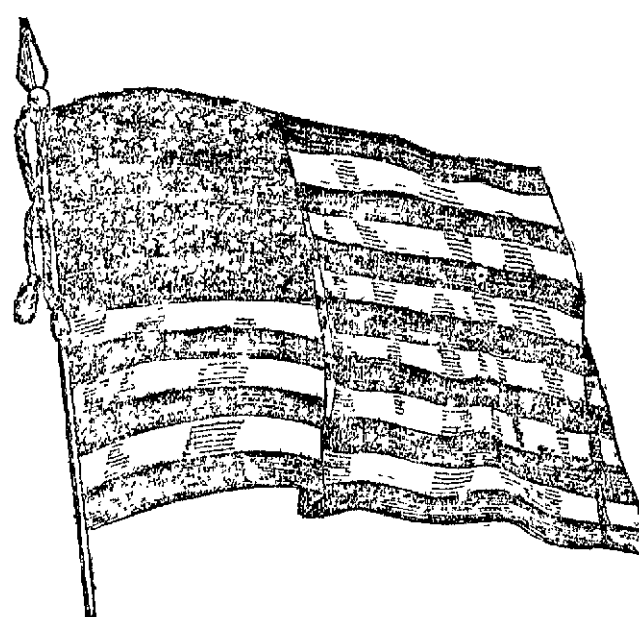

WASHINGTON, August 6.—There is a strong possibility that the 16th regiment, which was authorized to go to Porto Rico in a provisional division to be commanded by General Wade, will not embark on the expedition at all. The news from Porto Rico encourages the belief that the Spanish garrison in the island will be dislodged of soon after General Miles reaches the end of his march from Ponce to San Juan. Meanwhile, the quartermaster's department finds itself unable to provide promptly a sufficiently large number of transports for General Wade's expedition, and the time when there will be no extra for sending more troops to Porto Rico is approaching. Adjutant General Corbin said that the expedition of General Wade had been abandoned for the present, because all the transports were needed to carry General Shafter's men to Montank Point. Another reason exists for the abandonment of the expedition. The administration has been accused in many quarters of proposing the Wade expedition for political purposes, and, however groundless the charge may be, the officers are unwilling to incur censure until there is necessity to do so. A telegram has been received at the war department from the governor of Vermont informing the department that he does not wish to have the 1st Vermont volunteers sent to Porto Rico unless the regiment is needed for the campaign.

IMMUNE VOLUNTEERS

CHICAGO, August 6.—The Canadian Legion of this city is not afraid of yellow fever. Many members are immune, having served in the British army in Egypt, India and South America. At the meeting of officers this afternoon, the following was sent Governor Tanner: "The Canadian-American Legion volunteers to relieve the troops at Santiago. A large proportion of our officers and men are immune. Only the latter are expected to volunteer. Can fill vacancies with white immunes in a few days. Please offer our regiment to Washington authorities."

PLENTY OF MEDICINE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Surgeon Gen. Sternberg has received the following cablegram from Col. Harvard, Chief Surgeon at Santiago: "Necessary medicines, purchases and all present needs supplied. Report about overcrowded transports will be furnished as soon as possible. Similar things will not occur again." The reference to overcrowded transports relates to telegraphic inquiry made by Sternberg for particulars as to the Seneca and the Conchoa.

PORTO RICO TO BE SURRENDERED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The New York Herald's Madrid special says: The Spanish government has given orders that the minister of war shall not force resistance in Porto Rico to the utmost, knowing that it will inevitably fall into the hands of the Americans. Captain General Macias has been instructed to obtain terms like those obtained by Gen. Tonal at Santiago, or better, so as to save Spanish honor as much as possible.

"TEDDY" MAY RESIGN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—It is rumored that Col. Roosevelt, because of his "round robin" letter and Alger's rebuke, has signified his intention of resigning his commission as soon as he gets his command home. Confirmation of the report can not be obtained. Friends of Col. Roosevelt assert that the letter referring to regular and volunteer soldiers, which was made public by Secretary Alger, was a personal communication. The Secretary's action, they say, was an injustice to the commander of the Rough Riders.

EIGHTH ILLINOIS GOING TO CUBA.

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 6.—The Eighth infantry, (colored) will probably leave to-morrow for New York, where it will be transported by the steamer Yale direct to Santiago, Cuba. Gov. Tanner received a dispatch from H. C. Corbin, Adjutant General, this morning, directing the Eighth to leave in time to take the Yale on Tuesday next. The Quartermaster General has wired the quartermaster in Chicago instructions as to railroad transportation. The Adjutant General states that the main trouble with the troops now in Cuba is that they are suffering from exhaustion and exposure incident to one of the most trying campaigns to which soldiers were ever subjected. The Governor left this morning for Chicago to arrange with Quartermaster Johns, of the Department of the Lakes, for transportation.

STANDING ARMY PLAN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Chairman Hull of the House military affairs committee thinks a standing army of 100,000 men will be necessary after peace is brought about. The status of the regular army will be one of the important subjects to be determined by the next congress, and during the recess Mr. Hull will frame a measure for submission to his committee for action as soon as it meets in December, so that early action may be had. Troops would be needed in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and in his opinion 100,000 regulars will be needed for some time to come.

SPANISH PEACE ANSWER

Story from Madrid that America's Terms Have Been Accepted.

Message from Washington at Noon States That No Official News Had Been Received on the Subject.

MADRID, August 6, 10 a. m.—The Spanish reply to the United States, which, it has been learned from high authority, accepts the American peace conditions, has been completed, and will be submitted to the Queen Regent this morning, previous to the forenoon cabinet meeting.

NO OFFICIAL NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6, 12 noon.—It can be stated definitely and positively that no word of Spain's final action on America's peace terms has been received up to noon at the state department or at the French embassy.

LONDON GOSSIP.

"Much Ado About Nothing" Over the Princess.

LONDON, August 6.—Here are the family of the Princesses. Various explanations why the Princess of Wales went to Copenhagen: To settle a quarrel between Prince Charles and Prince's Maud. To settle a dispute between England and Russia over Chinese matters. Because the king of Denmark is ill. Because the queen of Denmark is ill. Because the princess herself is ill. Because Copenhagen air is pleasant than that in the Isle of Wight. To pay a visit to her mother. Because of an interesting event in the family of the Princesses. Because the Prince and Princess of Wales had separated. With all the gossip and guessing nobody knows just why she did go. Meanwhile the Prince of Wales is on the royal yacht Osborne, off Cowes, unable to walk, owing to his accident. The queen is at Osborne, nearby, with the court. The Duke of York is on the cruiser Crescent, which is acting as guardship at Cowes. The princess is with her mother and daughter at Copenhagen. All are keeping silent and everybody is wondering what the royal mystery is.

RUSSIA NOW READY FOR WAR

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Anglo-Russian war scare is spreading beyond political circles and the stock market is seriously depressed, consuls being included in the decline. Alarmist reports of Russian preparations are coming from several quarters with intimations that Russia is deliberately forcing a crisis in the far East. Diplomacy is extraordinarily active, and the wires between London and St. Petersburg have been monopolized by Government business.

ALL EUROPE AROUSED.

ROME, Aug. 6.—After a careful survey of the results of the Spanish-American war the Italian Militaire remarks that the United States is now fully entitled to become an important factor in the concert of the great powers of the world, and that Europe will find that due consideration must be given to this new power. The paper predicts that this new state of things will cause a mighty reinforcement of all the European fleets.

FIFTH NOT GONE YET.

NEWPORT NEWS, Aug. 6.—The transport with the Pennsylvania cavalry and artillery and mails for Porto Rico has sailed. The rest of Gen. Grant's expedition is still waiting for the transports.

DOES NOT FEAR A MOB

Clevenger Says He is Not Worrying About Anything.

HE IS NOT LOSING ANY SLEEP

And is Ready to Talk About His Crime When the Trial Comes Up—Telford's Friends Talk of Taking the Law in Their Hands.

Louis A. Clevenger, who is now in the county jail waiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of having murdered Bay Telford, says that he does not fear being mobbed.

There is a good deal of talk on the part of the inmates living in Telford's neighborhood of taking the law into their own hands. Today a man from that part of the county said it was generally felt that Clevenger should hang as that the people feared that he might get out of punishment in some way. There is a good deal of talk but no one is posing as a leader.

A reporter for this paper visited Clevenger in the jail today. The prisoner was asked if he had any fears of the threats and talk of the people in regard to mobbing him. He said:

"I don't know what they are talking but I don't have any fears of them and if over I had any I would not be here in jail. I had a good sleep last night and took a nice little nap of two hours this morning. The only thing that does worry me is the confinement for of course it is not pleasant to be closed up this way after having been accustomed to being out of doors. I don't want to say anything about my case now but when the day of the trial comes I will speak and I think I can speak loud enough to make everyone in the court room hear me."

It was suggested by the reporter to Clevenger that he might surprise the people a little by what he said to them. In answer to this Clevenger simply said that he would have something to tell Clevenger talks very pleasantly and does not carry on a bad conversation. He says his parents are not living and that he has no relatives in this county.

"I understand," said Clevenger, "that I have a brother in Monticello county, but I have not seen him for many years and have not written to him. I received a letter from a lawyer telling me of my brother. You see I went west when I was 18 years old and was around in the southwest for a long time. I came back to this county and worked for one man at one time for three years."

Clevenger laughed about the way people come in and stare at him. He said one man came to the jail a day or two ago and asked for him, saying that he was well known.

"I was standing just inside the bars," said Clevenger, "and the fellow was looking at me. The other boys called as though I was up there and of course the man had never known me or he would have recognized me when I was so near to him."

Clevenger backs up his statement in regard to not being worried for he certainly is very cool.

HAD ROUGH HOUSE

At Thompson Residence South-East of Decatur.

A WOMAN WAS ARRESTED

For Assaulting Her Son-in-Law with a Pitch Fork and Threatening to Kill—Slapped the Deputy in the Face.

There was a rather exciting time yesterday and last night at the home of John Thompson, six miles southeast of the city. Mrs. Thompson raised a disturbance which resulted in her arrest and trial, being charged with assaulting her son-in-law with a deadly weapon. The officers who made the arrest had about as hard a time as they have had for a long time.

It appears from what was said by the neighbors and relatives who were at the trial this morning that Mrs. Thompson is given to raising disturbances. Her son-in-law, Richard Travis, has been employed on his father-in-law's farm. Mr. Thompson who is a quiet and peaceable old gentleman, got along very nicely with Travis his son-in-law, and was quite friendly with him. Mrs. Thompson, however, had trouble with Travis yesterday. The latter a little brother had been working about the place and Mrs. Thompson attempted to abuse him. Travis, of course, would not allow his brother to be molested and of course he sent Mrs. Thompson's actions. They engaged Mrs. Thompson to such an extent that she threatened to kill her son-in-law and in order to carry out her threats she got a pitch fork and chased Travis. She threw the fork at him but missed him and he got away. All this occurred last evening and Travis came to Decatur, arriving here at a late hour. He sent for Justice O'Mara and swore out a state warrant charging Mrs. Thompson with assault with intent to kill. He insisted that the warrant be served at once and about midnight Deputy Sheriff Cass Nicholson accompanied by Floyd Gates, drove out to serve the warrant. After arriving at the Thompson residence the officers knocked on the door. Mrs. Thompson promptly replied that she would not open the door to the officers. Cass told her that they had a state warrant and she must open up and let him serve it. She talked back and forth for a solid half hour and then the officer informed the woman that if she did not open the door they would gain an entrance by force. But Mrs. Thompson would not be bluffed in this way and she finally refused to let the officers in the house. Mrs. Thompson came to the rescue at that moment and opened the door. The trouble of the officers had then just begun for Mrs. Thompson was not going to leave without showing fight. She was in bed and Nicholson ordered her to dress and come to the city. She said she had no idea of doing anything of the kind and that she would not get out of bed. She then tried a little strategy. She said that she was ill and would not be well for her to get out of bed. This softened the hearts of the officers and they felt ashamed that they were forcing the woman to get out. They asked Mr. Thompson if his wife was ill and he said there was nothing in the world the matter with her. This annoyed him more and she turned the steady flow of abuse which had been directed to the officers toward her husband for giving her away. Deputy Nicholson was standing near the woman explaining that she must come when she suddenly hauled off and struck him across the face. This put the officer a little out of patience and it had been a run he might have received a little forcible treatment. After two hours of hard work on the part of the officers and abuse and screaming and yelling on the part of the woman she was finally forced to get out of bed and was driven back to the city. Mr. Thompson did not want his wife locked up unless he was put in the cell with her. They were given a place in the city prison until this forenoon when the woman was taken before Justice O'Mara for a hearing. Attorney J. B. Latham appeared to prosecute. At some point during the matter was settled by the fact that Mrs. Thompson's son and costs and placing her under a bond of $500 to keep the peace. They were glad to get rid of her as they have not had as much trouble with anyone for a long time.

MORE FAMILY TROUBLES Yesterday afternoon Oliver Somerville arrested William Cooper a colored man. Cooper has always been a well behaved and hard working man and it was somewhat of a surprise when the charge of having beat his wife was brought against him. It seems, however, that Cooper had some provocation for making trouble. He went to his home and found that the relations of his brother and his wife were more intimate than they should be and he proceeded to give his wife a dressing down for her unbecoming behavior. His bond was placed at $200 and he promptly furnished it.

It is probable that Marion Spencer, the member of the Salvation Army, who was arrested for cruelly beating his wife will not be prosecuted as the officers believe that the woman will appear against her husband as is very often the case in such arrests.

Entertained Friends. At her home, No. 1105 East Orchard street Friday evening, Miss Gettrude Kitchon entertained a number of her friends in honor of her guest Miss Maud Morris of Atwood.

WILL GO IN THE NAVY.

Will Quinlan Commissioned as an Ensign—Leaves To-Night.

Will H. Quinlan of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Quinlan of this city, received a telegram this morning notifying him that he had received a commission as ensign in the United States navy. He took the professional examination last May and was recommended as a lieutenant, junior grade, but was taken ill and did not pass the physical examination at that time. Having recently recovered Mr. Quinlan went to Chicago last week and obtained permission from Washington to be examined by Dr. Moore of the navy, at present stationed at Chicago, and passed the physical examination. As there was no opportunity at this time to go as lieutenant, junior grade, he accepted the rank of ensign, the next lower grade. Mr. Quinlan will return to Chicago tonight and expects to be ordered into active service some time next week.

Disgusting Language. The residents of North Main street complain of the actions of the boys and young men who ride up and down the asphalt pavement on their bicycles. The residents say that as the wheelmen pass each other and ride along together they talk louder than ordinarily and the language some use is disgusting. One man says that he is positively ashamed to sit on the front porch at night with his family on the language of some of the wheelmen is so extremely vulgar. The wheelmen are generally going at good rate of speed and it is impossible to see who they are or to stop them. One of those who makes the complaint says that if he ever catches one of the boys talking vulgarly he will either have him put in jail or give him a good thrashing.

Attorney W. H. Black on Thursday night visited the Modern Woodman camp at Niantic and assisted in the initiation of five new members. The camp at Niantic is in a flourishing condition. New paraphernalia has been added and the lodge rooms are of the finest in the village.

Letter from Ned.
F. W. Wisner is in receipt of another letter from Private Ned Canberg of Company C, 167th Indiana volunteers. The regiment has been in camp at Tampa, Fla., but it is now at Fernandina. Ned was formerly an employee at the Decatur Furniture Factory and a member of Company H. He expected to go to Porto Rico, but the 10th regulars (colored) out of the 167th Indiana, and like the 6th Illinois, the Hoosiers had to wait. Canberg is tired of the monotony of camp life and anxious for war or peace. He gets the Daily Republican every day and keeps posted on war news.

Returned from Baltimore.
Edward Starr of the firm of J. G. Starr & Sons, wholesale harness dealers, has returned from Baltimore, where he has spent the past few weeks as assistant to the quartermaster general of the United States army in the inspection of harness and supplies for the army. The contract was let by the government to the firm of Ooms & Hartman of Baltimore and contracts were subject to the firms of O. F. Day & Son and Peter Rice & Son of Baltimore. Mr. Starr inspected the harness furnished by the three firms and made the selections. He says the harness furnished was as near to the standard as the specifications would allow and the contracts were filled satisfactorily.

Funeral of P. Honecker.
The funeral of the late Philip Honecker was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the family residence on South Broadway and was very largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Prestley. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in the city. The employees of the Decatur Brewing Company, where the deceased worked, attended in a body. There were many beautiful floral offerings. Music was rendered by a choir composed of Mrs. F. A. Dunn, Mrs. E. E. Dunn, D. L. Dunn and George Dunston. The burial was at Greenwood cemetery. The pall bearers were Ed Meyer, Henry Meyer, John Hagan, Frank Walser, Ed Frahm and W. B. Sluwers.

WHO KNOWS

W. J. Guymore? Up Goes a Thousand Hands at Once at This Question.

Every miner in the state knows Mr. Guymore who has been secretary for the United Mine Workers of the state for five years. He is an organization member of the organization, but they all know him still as a strong and powerful member. It is not necessary for me to go on and tell you what you all know so well, but there is one thing that I want to tell you which you may not know and you should. It is about Morrow's Kidney Pills. Mr. Guymore has used them and has highly praised them to us, and he says he thinks a public statement would help many a miner, in fact anyone who has had kidney trouble to use them. He wants to be of as much service to the public as he can, so here is what he says:

"I have been a sufferer more or less for years with my kidneys. Sometimes they would be very bad and I suffered a great deal. I had severe pain across my back in the region of the kidneys which was always worse when I stooped over, so bad sometimes I could hardly straighten up. You can see that the natural result would be a broken down system which I was rapidly getting. My appetite failed me and whatever I ate I had to force down. I read such wonderful things about Morrow's Kidney Pills that I thought it would do no harm to try them. I am glad I did for they proved to be the very remedy I required, got mine at R. N. Dodd's drug store and used them according to directions. Today I am entirely cured of all the backache, nervousness and everything arising from this trouble. I consider them safe, sure, quick and economical treatment and they effect a permanent cure."

DAWES ON PEACE OUTLOOK

He Contends That Spain Will Get No Concessions.

CHICAGO, August 6.—Charles G. Dawes, comptroller of the currency, is in the city for a week's visit with his family at Evanston. He arrived yesterday, going directly to the Union club. During the day he was asked for an expression of opinion as to the condition of the peace negotiations. He gave out the following written statement, which, coming from an official close to the president, is considered to be of special significance:

"It is the impression at Washington that peace is near at hand. It is not expected that any concessions will be made in the proposition to Spain submitted by the president last week. In spite of some rumors to the contrary, it is now known that no concessions whatever have been made in the original terms of the proposition.

"Until its definite and unqualified acceptance is had from Spain no relaxation of the active prosecution of the Porto Rican campaign is expected."

Mr. Dawes is well acquainted with the policy of the administration and the condition of affairs at Washington. He is one of the president's advisers.

HAPPY BOYS OF THE FIFTH

In Camp at Newport News on a Bluff--Seein' Things.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., August 6.—The 5th regiment Illinois infantry volunteers reached Newport News yesterday without mishap, reported to General Fred Grant, and went into camp on a bluff about 80 feet high, overlooking James River. The site selected is a most beautiful one, the river at this point being seven miles wide.

A short distance below the camp is Hampton Roads. The United States cruiser Minneapolis is anchored within hailing distance of the shore, and numerous small craft are constantly passing and repassing.

After the men had erected their tents permission was given by Colonel Culver to go in bathing, and soon the water was filled with soldier boys, many of whom were taking their first salt water bath. Congressman "Buck" Hinrichsen called upon the 5th regiment soon after it reached its new camp. The congressman had just returned from Camp Thomas, whether he had gone from Washington, but missed the regiment, as it was already on its way to Newport News. So he followed it and expressed himself as being highly pleased with the condition of the regiment and also with the outlook for its speedy departure for Porto Rico.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Ferdinand W. Peck, commissioner general for the Paris exposition, called at the white house to discuss his plans with the president. He also met Representative Cannon of Illinois, chairman of the house appropriation committee, and secured his promise to support an additional appropriation of at least $100,000 for the American exhibit.

LEADER STONE FOR EXPANSION

ST. LOUIS, August 6.—The paramount issue at the coming Democratic state convention which meets at Springfield on August 10, will be territorial expansion. Ex-Governor Stone, who favors such a policy, is looked upon as the leader of the expansionists in Missouri. The state administration and a majority of Missouri's congressmen are opposed to such a policy.

SIR LIPTON'S GENEROSITY

LONDON, August 6.—The fact has just transpired that ten days ago Sir Thomas Lipton visited Marlborough house and presented the Princess of Wales with a check for $100,000 ($500,000), to start dining-rooms in London at which working people may secure substantial meals for from 2 to 8 cents.

There will be a central dining-room capable of accommodating 3000 people simultaneously. It is expected that from 8000 to 10,000 dinners will be served there daily.

The trustees of which the Princess of Wales will be one will shortly be appointed to manage the project which will be known as the "Alexandra Trust."

NORMAL SCHOOL FIGHT IN IOWA

DES MOINES, IOWA, August 6.—President Scerby of the state Normal schools and teachers all over the state are arrayed against County Superintendent Branton, who has the law on his side, in a lively contest which promises to become feverish at the next meeting of the state teachers' association. Superintendent Branton refuses to accept grades on the state normal school diploma. He also announces the requirement of re-examination every two years at the expiration of state certificates as a necessary preliminary to the issuance of credentials in the state board to assist the applicant to secure a renewal. It is contended on behalf of the state normal school that refusal to recognize the grades of the institution will do it untold injury and its friends will be pitted against the county superintendents in a bitter fight.

THE CHALLENGE.

When B. F. Caldwell accepted the nomination for congress by the Democrats of this congressional district, for which he has been laboring since November, 1896, when he was defeated by the people, he read a carefully prepared speech from manuscript. Caldwell is noted for posing in politics and this led him, after laying down five ridiculous propositions on the money question, to call on his opponent, Hon. I. K. Mills, the Republican nominee for congress, to discuss these propositions. He did not call for a joint discussion. He did not want one, because he never discussed one of these propositions in his life, but he did intend to leave the impression upon the convention that he was willing to meet Mr. Mills in a joint discussion and leave his proposition too vague for Mr. Mills to accept it as a challenge for debate. But when his remarks were published in the Springfield Register the Democratic organ the editor carried the farce a little too far by putting a glaring headline over them: "Ringing Challenge to Mills."

Mr. Mills, unfortunately for Mr. Caldwell, was in the city of Springfield the day of the publication and very promptly and very properly assumed he had been challenged to a joint discussion by Mr. Caldwell and as promptly accepted the challenge by communicating that fact to Mr. Caldwell and publishing his acceptance in the Illinois State Journal. A copy of his acceptance was also sent to the Register, but that paper failed up to yesterday to publish it. Mr. Caldwell has obviously put his foot in it as he will now have to back down or back up his challenge and it matters not which road he chooses, as either will be disastrous to him. In his letter of acceptance Mr. Mills characterizes Mr. Caldwell's propositions as embodying elements "destructive to the business interests of the country and as involving the honor of the nation." Surely Mr. Caldwell, if he believes in his propositions, should be willing to defend them in debate, but no one acquainted with Mr. Caldwell believes he will attempt it. There are those in his own party who say Caldwell does not believe them himself and put them out as bait for Populists and intimates he went too far in opening up the way for Mills to draw him into a discussion. However this may be he is in for it now and unless he consents to arrange time, place and terms for a joint discussion which he and his organ proposed, he will show the white feather and will have to take the consequences Mr. Caldwell some time ago announced that he wanted a short campaign and wanted to make it "short, sharp and snappy." Mills seems to be ready to help him along in this, but he will find an intellectual debate with Mr. Mills more troublesome than throwing principles and policies aside and trusting to his pocketbook to do his debating for him and get him into congress.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Imperialism is not the logic it was expected to be. Epithets do not frighten sensible people. The colors of the term are dropping it. Imperialism is growing so fast that a predominate is created that many of its old opponents are embracing it. Democratic conventions either dodge imperialism or declare for it. This break toward the noncommitting policy is said to have struck Bryan. A few weeks ago, in a speech, he came out against expansion, and many Bryanite papers said he thus hit the keynote which would lead him to victory in 1898. Now, however, some of his friends say he was misinterpreted at the time. That speech, they declare, was in favor of expansion, and not against it. Bryan, in fact, according to these persons, is an imperialist. This change of heart by Bryan, if he has made it, does not portend a change of conviction, providing he has any conviction on one side or the other. It means that he sees imperialism is a winning issue.

In his speech before the Democratic congressional convention which nominated him for congress B. F. Caldwell observed that the Democratic party in 1890 might be led by William Jennings Bryan, Fitzhugh Lee or Rear Admiral Dewey. This indicates that Mr. Caldwell's political principles are about as stable as the promises of Aguinaldo of the Philippines, and suspects his party of the same instability. Bryan favors free silver and free riot. Fitzhugh Lee favors sound money and stable government, while Dewey is a Republican, but is not now and will never be in politics.

The post convention-convention did not work in Macon county unless it may be said that it defeated the nomination of a Macon county man for senator, caused the disclosure of the man who conducted a beer garden in the Fifth ward, and the fellows who after denouncing the Allen bill conspired to secure the nomination of Suttle for senator, and those who worked the scheme for free silver in 1895.

B. F. Caldwell has succeeded in getting up trouble in the Democratic ranks in Sangamon and Macon counties and the only way which now seems open, by which he may redeem himself, is to proceed to wipe up every acre of ground in the 17th congressional district with Hon. I. K. Mills in a joint debate. The people of the district are all anxious to witness the performance.

We have known the Hon. Jack Baker a long time and always gave him credit for having some shrewdness, but when he accused the Republicans of having shut off the electric lights in the court house while the Democratic senatorial convention was in session, we lost faith in his good judgment. No Republican would want to shut off such a convention as that.

P. K. Whittemore, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, called attention to the fact that when the Democratic state convention declared for the "initiative and referendum" it failed to say whether it should be taken internally or applied externally. Caldwell may have the directions scattered about his person.

The Republican is friendly to Mr. Mills and does not want to see him receive any bodily injury and for that reason, in case he engages in a joint discussion with Hon. B. F. Caldwell, we warn him to look out for the initiative and referendum.

Congressman Joe Cannon reports in Washington that the people are not in favor of the retention of the Philippine Islands. Perhaps Mr. Cannon confused his inquiries to those who are working at his soldiers' home in Danville.

An anxious public would like to know what has become of that army balloon.

PART IV.

There was a strange vibrant quality in the thin voice, an unexpected note which thrilled him irresistibly, and suddenly he found himself thinking—not of Miss Cordelia and her cakes, not of Miss Cordelia and her gentleness, but of a certain pair of warm brown eyes that only that afternoon had smiled upon him. He was a fool, an old fool, he told himself, to remember such things; but the undercurrent of his thoughts went on like some sweet antiphonal strain. Love was still abroad in the world, and happiness—they were infinitely better seeking than mere physical comfort, even if shipwreck lay at the end.

The arrested hand was raised quickly to his head, and the Captain for the first time in his honest life found himself taking shelter behind an excuse which has served the feminine world for ages. He bent a hasty retreat, burying down his path his mind filled with the vision of Molly Hunter's pretty face, while the cry of the music—"Ro-o-o-bin-in-wa-wa-wa!"—pursued him like the ghost of some faint, old time passion.

Miss Cordelia waited at the close of the first verse for the hearty "Brava!" which the Captain, with remarkable catholicity of taste, always accorded to her singing. Then, strangely chilled by its absence, she went on with the song. There was a sudden noise at the door.

"For pity's sake, Cordelia, stop screaming!" a harsh voice cried. "It sets my nerves on edge. If I were you I'd give up such love-sick songs, anyway. They're more suitable for that Hunter girl."

The musician's hands fell with a crash upon the keys, the reverberation almost deafened her, but above everything she was conscious of one thought—Cordelia must be very sure of her ground to speak so forcibly before her guest. In one minute all the rose-colored castles she had reared came tumbling about her. There was something wet on her cheek and she was glad as she brushed it aside that the room was dark.

"I'd recommend 'Greenwillow' or 'Federal' as more in your line," Cordelia continued sharply, "but you needn't begin practising now. You'll have plenty of time to learn them before the Captain comes again."

"The Captain? Where is the Captain?" stammered Cordelia.

"I don't know. I'm not his keeper. He's gone, that's the long and short of it. He said he'd be back, as if any woman would believe that! He was all that and coming on well until you began your disgraceful singing; then he was driven away."

The voice grew fainter as the speaker ascended the stairs and the last words, with a sharp laugh, floated down through the hall. Then there was the sound of an angrily closed door, and after that a grim silence settled like a pall over the house.

For a long time Miss Cordelia remained motionless, her head drooping forward into her hands, and her brain whirling. The Captain's inexplicable conduct, her sister's anger, Molly Hunter's voice and the cruel characterization of her own singing were jumbled hopelessly together in her mind. She felt suddenly weak and old. All the innocent pride she had taken in her own accomplishment deserted her, and, stripped and bare as it was, it seemed a pitiable thing. A sob choked her. She would never sing again, not even "Greenwillow" or "Federal," and all those other little songs must be put by forever. Cordelia had called the singing disgraceful, and Cordelia was right.

A quick rush of blood dyed her face scarlet as the past weeks of her life unrolled themselves like a panorama before her. She was absolutely merciless in her judgment. All the little efforts she had made to adorn her person in order to please one pair of eyes, appeared vulgar to her now, and the dreams that had filled her waking hours, those simple thoughts which a girl might weave unobtrusively, were unpardonable at her age. She had nursed a spirit of resentment, too, against her sister, growing jealous and bitter as the days went by, until the feelings had been almost too strong for her control. But this estrangement, wrong and cruel as it had been, was not the worst thing that had befallen her. There was a chance of amendment—renewed trust and tenderness that might smooth out the difficulties and help them both back into the old path again. She had lost something else—the something as intangible as the fine bloom on the glowing cheek of the peach, which once brushed aside is gone forever—she had lost her own self-respect.

That very evening, smarting with the thought that the pleasant intimacy with the Captain was to be dispelled by the interest his other neighbors were taking in the disposal of his fate, she had broken down the wall of her reserve. She had tried to show him her feelings, she had put them into her song. Surely he must have guessed that when she sang "Robin" her heart was crying, "Jared, Jared!"

Disgraceful was too slight a term to describe her action. It was indecent, immodest, unwomanly. She looked herself with her scorn. Her words were like so many gongs to sting her into some sense of her shamelessness. There was no excuse for her, not even the excuse that she loved him. All the more reason, then, for her to wait to be sought. What if she had waited long, not a pulchry six weeks, but years and years—eight and twenty years? That was no justification for her conduct in the end.

Eight and twenty years! She shivered nervously and put up her hands to hide her face in the dark. He had been thinking of some one else in those other days and had had no thought for her. Even the flower upstairs in her "Thomas a Kempis" had only been tossed her way in token of good fellowship. Poor, little crumpling rose that had been kissed and kissed again! No one had ever suspected the tiny thread of romance in the gray wool of her existence, and Jared Taylor least of all.

She groped her way noiselessly to the mantel in search of a match. In another moment there was a light in the room. She held the candle high and gazed curiously at her reflection in the mirror above the fireplace. She was like a little, dim ghost.

"I'm an old woman," she said softly as she put the candle down. "I never thought of that before—an old woman! And love isn't for us. It's for youth and beauty, like Molly Hunter and the famous girls. Well, it's better they should have it while they're young rather than to go through the long, long years waiting for it, missing it, longing for it."

She turned with a sigh and tip-toed across the room to the cabinet where she kept her music and took out the yellow sheets with trembling hands. It was the meagrest collection—a dozen songs perhaps, and all of the most sentimental nature. She had taken them that winter when the little singing master came twice a week from the great city to give the finishing touches to the education of the young ladies in Broadmeadows. He had only come one year. It was a tedious journey in those days, and the small number of pupils made the venture a financial failure. Without his aid her repertoire had not grown. She had clung timidly to the old music, practising conscientiously and following his instructions as she remembered them with painstaking fidelity.

She had long since discarded the use of the printed page. Still, there was something tangible about those old pieces, and to destroy them was like giving up the best part of her life. But she would never need them again. What! Sit there and sing of love and roses, cry incessantly for the dear ones' presence, while all the time throbbing in tune to the melody, would be that unendurable thought of what she once had done? Impossible, impossible!

Her master had always said she lacked warmth; that her amors and her passions were modes of expression that could make no headway through the snow and ice of her maidenly reserve, which was as incapable of being thawed as the pond on the village green when locked in the fierce grip of winter. His smile occurred to her with irresistible force. What would he have thought, she asked herself daily, had he heard her that night—had he seen her heart through the filmy veil of the song? Ah! she had been prompted by no mere painted direction. She had found her inspiration deeper than that, as the ice-bound pond in time responds to the voice of Nature and leaps to life. There had been no necessity to assume a feeling.

She gathered the little pile of music in her arms and clasped it against her breast. Then she sank down on the floor and began to tear each piece softly and unalteringly. When her task was finished her lap was full of scraps of time-stained paper. She took some of them in her hands and held them wistfully, letting them flutter through her fingers. They were like tiny, pale-winged butterflies—useless, dying, dead. She gave a low cry and buried her face upon her knees, rocking to and fro in a dumb agony at the realization of all she had lost.

The clock in the hall ticked monotonously. Without the garden lay dreaming of the past summer. The hush that enveloped all nature was broken only by the harsh alteration of the katydids. A sense of coming blight pervaded the sharp, damp air. How long Miss Cordelia sat there she never knew, but at last, stiff and aching from the discomfort of her position and chilled by the mist that was creeping over the land, she struggled to her feet, holding up the skirt of her gown in her hand that none of the papers should be scattered on the floor. The candle had almost burned out. It flickered uncertainly with an angry, sputtering sound. She stood quite motionless for a moment; then she bent down and laid her lips gently against the mute key of her piano.

"Good-by," she whispered passionately, "good-by!"

Don't take any stock in the man whose capital consists of wind.

Don't try to stop a bicycle by pulling back on the handle bars.

Many of the North American Indians were magnificent specimens of physical manhood. This was due, largely, to their active outdoor life. Nevertheless, they had the wisdom to know that an active life in the open air alone, would not keep a man healthy. They had their medicine-men, who gathered herbs from field and forest and brewed decoctions to assist the natural processes of the various vital organs.

Modern civilized men do not as a usual thing recognize the same necessity until it is too late. They ignore medicine until they are within the grasp of some serious or fatal disease. The time for a man to begin taking medicine is when he begins to feel out of sorts. If a man is thoroughly well and healthy he does not feel that way. If he does feel that way he may be pretty sure that he is half sick. When he is half sick it does not take long before he is "whole sick." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine for a man when he is sick or getting sick. It puts him all right all round. It puts his stomach right to begin with, and that is the most important point. It puts his liver right, and that is the second most important point. It purifies his blood and fills it with the life-giving elements of the food he eats, and that is the third important point. It drives out all disease germs and impurities of every description. It is the greatest blood-maker and blood-builder. It cures 95 per cent. of all cases of constipation, weak lungs, spitting of blood, obstinate coughs and kindred ailments. Thousands who were given up to die have testified to their recovery under this marvelous medicine. An honest dealer will not urge a substitute for the sake of a little extra profit. He gives you what you ask for.

SOLDIERS

Ninth Illinois Through an E

The members of the 9th Illinois regiment passed through Decatur on the Wabash this morning at 5 o'clock on their way from Springfield, they have been in camp at Jacksonville. The regiment was expected here some time yesterday afternoon or last night and the people were inquired for them, but when they came at 5 o'clock there was no one there at the depot. There were no signs of the train. The first two sections were here not more than five minutes and the third section stayed about minutes to wait for a mail train.

The train equipment furnished for soldiers by the Wabash company fine one and the other and were well satisfied with the service they received. There were no delays at the train started and the troops were through as quickly as possible.

There was a full regiment of men on the three trains. To train the men the road furnished forty-five box cars, three baggage cars and a palace car for the officers' headquarters.

Extension of Weather Service to the Caribbean Sea.

Ten or Twelve New Stations Are to Be Established—It Will Be for Benefit of All the Nations.

The most radical extension of the weather service yet made will be operated immediately by this government by the establishment of a complete system of weather stations on the Caribbean sea for the benefit of all nations whose interests lie in that region. Between ten and twelve new stations will be organized and the work to inaugurate the new service and man the stations will be dispatched to the field in a few days.

While under the general supervision of Chief Moore, of the weather bureau, there will be a central station located probably at Kingston, Jamaica, but possibly at either Santiago or Guantanamo, Cuba, instead, which will constitute the headquarters. There are three stations now in operation, Havana, with which weather warnings are even now exchanged every day between the two countries, surprising as it may seem, and Kingston and St. Thomas. The location of the new stations is contemplated to include Barranquilla, Columbia, St. Kitts, (southeast of St. Thomas), Trinidad, Curacao, Martinique, San Domingo and the Barbadoes. There will be several stations on the north coast of South America. It has been found that tornadoes, which are especially to be looked for, beginning around the equator, frequently either cut a slice off the corner of South America in their progress north or cut over past the Windwards, in either of which directions the earliest information will be secured by the new service and rushed ahead with a gain of many hours.

The work will effect a complete chain of agencies for weather intelligence that embraces the entire section from Central America east to the Caribbean islands and from the southern coast of North America to the north coast of South America. It will be begun at the earliest practicable moment. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Chief Moore, of the bureau, having in view the frequency of tornadoes there in August.

MESSAGE FROM THE DEAD.

Survivor of Wreck of Bourgogne Tells of Death of a Young Lady of New York City.

A man who survived the sinking of the French liner La Bourgogne was the bearer of the last message of H. J. Knowles' daughter to her father at New York.

"Tell him," she said, "that I died bravely and a good girl, and that I will meet him in Heaven."

H. J. Knowles is connected with the Equitable Life Insurance society. Both his daughter and his wife sank in La Bourgogne.

The messenger, whose name is not given, called on Mr. Knowles and told of the sailor struggle for life of the cowardly sailors who pushed helpless women beneath the waves.

"I tried to save her," said the young man, "but I couldn't. In that great crowd of hulking brutes, each intent upon saving his own life, I could not help but be impressed with the sublime heroism displayed by this girl. I don't care to give my name. It would be no credit to me to be chronicled as a survivor where this little girl met a watery grave, though God knows I tried to save her."

Mr. Knowles thanked him brokenly and the man went out.

AGILITY OF SEAMEN.

"Abandoned Ship" Drifts Develops Remarkable Results—Done in Four Minutes.

A naval officer thus describes the routine: "All hands abandon ship!" drill: "Two minutes after the word has been passed every ship's boat has swung from its davits into the water, and a minute later every boat is thoroughly provisioned and watered. Within four minutes, and often less, much quicker time, every man of the ship's company, from the commanding officer down, is occupying the station in the boat called for by his ship's number, and then the command 'Sheer off!' is given. The boats are hauled away a couple of hundred feet from the deserted vessel, and she rides without a human soul aboard her, often when the drill is gone through in midocean, in a sea that the landsman would account terrible. Then the word 'Board!' is passed, and within eight minutes at the most all hands are not only on board again, but every boat has been refloated to the davits, all of the provisions, water, instruments and other gear have been removed and the ship's company is in a fair way to get to sleep again."

Largest Fire Engine.
The Holt—the engine of which the Liverpool fire brigade is justly proud—is the largest land fire engine in the world. Her total weight is five tons and her pumping capacity is 1,500 gallons per minute, and she can throw a spray considerably over 120 feet. She is drawn by three and sometimes four horses. The Holt operates with three 4½ inch hoses working and three three-inch hoses feeding the tank.

Book Made of Marble.
At the Strozzi palace, in Rome, there is a book made of marble, the leaves being of marvelous thickness.

Marrying Age of Frenchmen.
The average marrying age of a Frenchman is 30 years.

'BLOOD WILL TELL'

The Grandson of a Great Author in the Famous Charge Up San Juan Hill.

JACK HAWTHORNE'S LETTER TO HIS MOTHER.

In the Field, Cuba, July 6.

Dearest Mother:

I write to let you know that I am still alive and well, though I am rather surprised to find myself so.

We had a terrible battle that lasted three days, and in which we lost 1800 killed and wounded. I never expected to come through the battle alive, much less without a scratch. At least a dozen men were killed or wounded right around me.

The major of our battalion called for two men to go forward and locate the enemy, so I and another man called Botta jumped up and ran forward to where we could see the Spaniards on the hill.

It seemed certain death to get up, the bullets were flying so thick, but we got back all right and reported. Botta was afterward shot through the leg.

I have lost everything except the clothes I have on.

Your loving son,

JACK HAWTHORNE.

Company A, 71st New York Volunteers.

But no, Jack Hawthorne had not lost his most precious possession of all: the heroic blood that courses in his veins. Heroic blood it was that prompted him to stand and Private Botta at the same instant to jump up and rush forward with such alacrity in the face of almost certain death.

All the world knows the name of this young fellow's grandfather, Nathaniel Hawthorne, author of the "Scarlet Letter" and "The Marble Faun," masterpieces of English literature, but who has heard of Botta, the unromantic companion of the young man's equally brave companion? What forefathers have handed down to him the blood from which heroes are made?

HEROISM IS IN THE BLOOD.

"Blood will tell," is an axiom that in all the ages has never been gained. Every man who does a brave, heroic act carries within his veins a quality of blood that urges and sustains him. No matter whether he inherits it from a long line of famous ancestors or from the sound and healthy constitution of his immediate parents, whose only distinction is honorable toil and a simple virtuous life.

It matters little where or how you obtain it, but it matters all the world that by some means you possess good blood. Good blood is first, last and always the making of manly men and womanly women. It is the source of all courage, virtue and happiness.

CAN A MAN MAKE HIMSELF A HERO?

"A man's first duty," said Henry Ward Beecher, in a grand sermon on human development, "is to be a good animal." A man may himself begin the rehabilitation of his physical powers, laying the foundation of his own manliness as an inheritance for those who come after him more precious than the gold and rubies.

Men and women who are sick, weakened, and incapacitated for their full share in the daily, hourly struggle for existence, ought to carefully determine whether or not their mental, moral and physical faculties may be improved and advanced surely to a higher and nobler plane.

WHY PEOPLE DESPAIR.

In the depth of sickness and wretchedness, men feel that their days of courage and usefulness are ended. Women feel that they will never more be equal to the duties and burdens that come upon a wife and mother; but too often this sad conclusion, and the deep and hopeless despondency that accompanies it, are entirely erroneous.

It comes because manly mentality and womanly courage have been sapped and weakened by the subtle, disintegrating poison of physical debility and malnutrition. The physical organs to be "willing" because the blood is weak; the blood is impoverished, the nutritive powers depleted. It is by overcoming these physical disabilities and restoring the forces of nutrition to full and complete vitality that Dr. Pierce's wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" gives back to men and women their true birthright of hopefulness, endurance and heroism.

WHAT TWO SOLDIERS SAY.

"Four months ago I did not think to be in shape to assist our 'Uncle Samuel' in case of hostilities," said a Florida gentleman, A. D. Weller, Esq., of Pensacola, in a letter to Dr. Pierce. "But thanks to you, I am now ready for the 'Don's.' Since receiving your diagnosis of my case, as stomach trouble and liver complaint, I have taken eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and must say that I am transformed from

to perfect health."

"Thirteen years ago I was wounded by a ball passing through my lung," says George B. Blecher, Esq., of Darton, Pike Co., Ky. "I have had a bad cough ever since with shortness of breath, and it was very easy to take cold; the slightest change of weather would cause the cough to be so bad I would have to sit up in bed all night."

"I could not eat nor sleep at times I was all run-down; I could not work at all. A few months ago I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I have not used more than two bottles and now I can eat, sleep and work, and I feel like a new man. I cannot find words to sufficiently recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or tell the good it has done me."

THE BASIS OF POWER.

The extraordinary effect of this great "discovery" upon the digestive and nutritive organism, which is the basis of all physical renewal, gives it efficient potency in all these complaints, of both adults and children, associated with debility, emaciation and loss of stamina. It is the sovereign remedy above all medicines ever invented for overcoming severe, chronic, lingering coughs, throat and bronchial complaints, bleeding from the lungs and all kindred ailments, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead on to that dread disease—consumption.

It elaborates poisonous bile-products and disease-germs from the circulation and the skin, expels morbid accumulations from the bronchial tubes and lung cells; gives keen assimilative power to the digestive juices and blood-making glands, and supplies an abundance of that pure, regenerating, nutritive material which builds up healthy tissue, muscular flesh and vital nerve force. It regenerates the blood, and thereby rejuvenates the man.

WHAT MAKES NERVE-POWER?

For delicate, nervous, broken-down and emaciated invalids it is a thousand times preferable to nauseous emulsions, or deleterious stimulants, malt extracts and alcohol "compounds." It does not give a mere temporary stimulus to the nerves. It feeds them; it rebuilds them; it makes rich blood and transforms it into healthy nerve-fiber.

GREAT SUFFERING.

"My health had been falling for several years," writes Mrs. Sophia A. Stamp, of Sugar Grove, Smyth Co., Va. "I had had diabetes and at times a dreadful hiccough in my back above the loins; I could not rest at night on account of hot spots. Last spring I began to feel so weak I could scarcely do my work, and in April I broke down completely. I had indigestion and kidney trouble. The back of my head and neck would be so tired, I could not rest. The left side of my face ached but the pains and aches, yielded under the influence of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I had also a severe pain in my left limb. I tried different liniments, but received no relief. I could not lie still on account of the suffering in my body. My limbs and feet were cold, although I was in a perspiration nearly all the time. Sometimes I would have to be propped up in bed all night, and even then could sleep but little."

GREAT SUFFERING.

"I sent for the doctor and asked if he could cure me. He said he had never treated but a time or two. I took his treatment about three weeks and was no better, but worse if anything, so I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I bought six bottles but I had only to take four bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of

GREAT SUFFERING.

the 'Pleasant Pellets' and I was able to do my work again. I have thus far had no return of the disease. I feel better this spring than I have felt for several seasons. I have no hot spells like I had for several years. If I had taken your treatment sooner, no doubt I could have kept that bad spell off, but I am truly thankful that I took your medicine and found a cure. I shall ever praise the medicine that cured me and will recommend it to all suffering as I was."

DANGERS AVOIDED.

This matchless "Golden Medical Discovery" is absolutely free from alcohol. It is totally unlike the numerous "sarsaparillas," "tonics," "compounds," "malt extracts" and so-called "blood-purifiers" which contain so large a percentage of alcohol that their persistent use is almost certain to awaken a morbid craving for stimulants. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine, pure and simple. It may be used with perfect confidence in a temperance family. Thereby all danger of contracting the alcohol habit is avoided.

The unparalleled reputation of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has led some unscrupulous dealers to take advantage of the almost universal demand by attempting to substitute some other article in which they have a greater interest. Any druggist who evinces his contempt for your judgment by trying to foist upon you something different from what you ask for, on the plea that his substitute is "just as good" should be met by a flat refusal to discuss the question. Show him that you have a mind of your own.

The splendid Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., of which Dr. Pierce is the chief consulting physician is the model medical institution of America; Dr. Pierce's staff of nearly a score of associate specialists includes the most eminent experts in every field of practice.

NO CHARGE.

No charge is made for consultation by mail; and any one writing to Dr. Pierce will receive a cordial, earnest, prompt reply, containing the best professional advice obtainable in America without one cent of cost; and the treatment suggested will be always the most simple, sensible and inexpensive.

AN UNMATCHED EXPERIENCE.

It should be remembered that Dr. Pierce in his thirty years of practical experience at the head of his great institution, has successfully treated more cases of severe, obstinate, chronic, diseases, than the average local practitioner ever heard of. His great thousand-page illustrated "Common Sense Medical Advisor" has had a greater sale than any other medical book ever published in any language: Three-quarters of a million copies were sold at $1.50 each. A free edition, paper-bound, has been issued, and one copy will be sent to any one family for the mere cost of mailing, 21 one-cent stamps sent to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.; or, for 31 stamps a heavier, handsome, cloth-bound copy will be sent.

About one month ago my child, which is 15 months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy. C. L. Hughes, Stump-ton, Gilmer Co., W. Va. For sale by J. E. ## TALKS OF HIS SON

W. H. Telford Tells of Bay's Relations with Myers Girl

AN UGLY FEELING EXISTS

On the Part of Telford's Friends Against Clevenger—Both Men were Very Friendly with the Girl.

The murder of Bay Telford by Louis A. Clevenger has stirred up a good deal of feeling in the neighborhood in which the crime was committed and the people in that vicinity have by no means yet forgotten the deed committed last Sunday. W. H. Telford the father of the murdered man called at the Republican office yesterday to secure papers containing accounts of the murder and inquest. Referring to the reports that there was a bad feeling against Clevenger on the part of the neighbors and friends of young Telford, Mr. Telford admitted that while the people were probably not disposed to interfere with the course of the law in the punishment of Clevenger there was an ugly feeling against him and that the people expressed themselves freely as to what they thought ought to be done with the man.

Mr. Telford is the owner of an 80-acre farm on which he resides with his family. He has a large number of relatives living near Salem, Marion county, and also has some distant relatives in Decatur. Mr. Telford in speaking of the acquaintance of his late son with Leodiah Myers, said that the young woman was keeping house for her father Joseph Myers, and that Bay Telford had known her for some months past and he did not doubt but that they were very friendly. He said that he induced his son to break off his connections with the girl for a period of six weeks but the acquaintance was renewed. Last spring Clevenger moved to the Widow Walker's place to cultivate a corn crop. This Mr. Telford supposed led to Clevenger's acquaintance with the Myers girl and the result was that Clevenger went to the Myers residence to live. At the time of the murder he had his tent near the Myers house but it was not brought there until the Saturday before the murder. Mr. Telford did not know personally as to what differences existed between his son and Clevenger, but supposed that the connection of the two men with the girl caused a feeling of jealousy between them. Mr. Telford knew nothing of Clevenger before he moved to the Walker place, except that for several years he had worked for farmers in the vicinity of Canebrake Station. He had heard that Clevenger and the Myers girl were to have been married. He did not know then that Clevenger had a wife who had applied for a divorce. Now he can readily see why the marriage did not take place.

NOT YET LOCATED.

L. M. Davidson Not Yet Heard From—In Ignorance of His Wife's Death.

L. M. Davidson, the husband of Mrs. Davidson, who died last week from the effects of the injuries received from the accident caused by the street car running off the track, was not found at the time of his wife's death and has not yet been heard from. It was stated at the time of Mrs. Davidson's injury that Mr. Davidson was a traveling salesman for the F. B. Tait Manufacturing company, but this is not true. He is not connected with that firm but is traveling for a commission house. His whereabouts were not known at the time of Mrs. Davidson's death and it has not been possible since to locate him. He has no knowledge of his wife's death and burial and will probably not learn of the end circumstances before reaching home.

NOT ALLOWED.

Wheelmen Must Not Ride on the Depot Platform—Privilege Abused.

Yesterday T. W. Douglass, the depot master, and the policemen at the depot were instructed not to allow anyone to ride a bicycle on the depot platform nor on the board walk extending from the depot to the Wabash offices. Wheelmen have always been allowed but the privilege has been abused by some and it is necessary to make all suffer for it. A wheelman will frequently dash across the platform when the place is crowded with people and there is always danger of an accident. Hereafter if wheelmen are caught riding on the platform or on the walk they will be arrested and prosecuted.

STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

Charles Jones Thrown from the Car—Other Accidents Yesterday.

There was an accident last night on the Riverside branch of the electric car line which might have resulted badly but fortunately no one was badly hurt. Motorman Jackson was running a car with two trailers. When the cars were going toward the park in Riverside place the middle trailer jumped the track and ran to one side. Charles Jones was thrown from the car and bruised his leg badly, but no bones were broken. Many of the people jumped from the car, but none of them were hurt. One man screamed loudly when he saw his child fall and the women were badly frightened, but there was nothing more serious.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Braunerbusch was thrown over the dashboard and badly bruised and scratched. The wagon was a total wreck. Dr. Hostetler attended him.

AT ARGENTA.

C. E. Rally and Nashville Echo Meeting on Sunday.

The Christian Endeavor rally and Nashville echo meeting which will be held by the members of the Mason county Christian Endeavor union at Argenta on Sunday. Tomorrow will be the third and largest of the rally meetings which have been held in the county this season. The kinders find these meetings especially beneficial and very helpful in keeping up the interest in the work. It has been the history of all societies of this nature that after the first flush of enthusiasm and interest the work slowly but surely begins to drag and a special effort is necessary to keep interest to the point of constant attendance and endeavor to increase the membership and influence of the society. The rally meeting which brings together the members of the society from all over the county are found to be the best medium for the exchange of different plans and methods for the advancement of the work and a constant variety is thus introduced. The meetings will be systematically held throughout the county during the summer months and will probably be adopted as a permanent feature of the work of the society.

The members who will attend the meeting at Argenta tomorrow will leave Decatur at 8 o'clock in the morning driving to their destination and expecting to reach there in time to attend the morning church services. The meeting will open at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and there will be an afternoon and evening session.

The program consists of addresses on "The Sword of the Spirit and How to Wield It" by Rev. J. S. Keener of Argenta; "Our Junior Christian Endeavor Work," by Mrs. R. J. Simpson of Decatur; "Our Workshop," by Miss Carrie L. Knapp; "The Elements of Our Pledge," by A. M. Taylor; Question Box, conducted by Miss Ethel Dimock; "The Secret of Power" by W. Dawson; "Nashville Echoes" by J. L. Deck; "Christian Citizenship" by Wayne Williams and "The Christian Endeavorers Relation to the Church and the World" by Miss Ida Humphreys.

The afternoon session will be in charge of the president, J. L. Duck, and the evening session in charge of Miss Lulu Wheeler, the vice president.

It is expected that a number of others from Decatur will attend the meeting, among them will be R. J. Simpson and Chris Curtis.

Evening with Field.

The good literature committee of the Senior Christian Endeavor society of the First M. E. church gave a Field evening at the lecture room of the church last evening. The program consisted of a sketch of the poet's life given by Rev. Frost Craft, and readings from his works by Misses Maude Martin, Myrtle Flint, Edith Starr, Miss Dinehart and Messrs. Clarence Erwin and Wayne Williams. One of the most enjoyable features of the program was the recitation by Miss Helen Dawson entitled "Just Before Christmas." Miss Edith Starr's rendition of "Seven Things at Night," was especially good and Miss Anna Packard contributed delightfully to the program by the singing of three of Field's songs, "Little Boy Blue," "A Norse Lullaby" and "The Little Peach." Following the program traps and wafers were served by the social committee under the direction of Miss Myrtle Flint.

This was the third of the series of evenings with poets which will be given by the society during the year. The two preceding were devoted to Longfellow and Riley.

Woodman Picnic.

Easterly Camp No. 1625 will run an excursion to Mackinaw August 21. They will be joined at Mt. Palusk by the Woodmen of the town and the Woodman band will accompany them. The boys expect a fine time and a large crowd.

Big Picnic.

A big picnic will be given next Wednesday near Walker station. It will be given under the auspices of the Methodist church and will be a large affair.

Theodore Nelson of Chicago is the guest of his father, Judge Nelson.

BICYCLE RACES

Held Last Night at the Race Track.

THE LAST OF THE SERIES

Murray Wins Mile Open, Rodgers the Five Mile Handicap and Kiel the One Mile Handicap.

At the race track last evening the members of the Wheelmen's club gave the fourth and last of a series of race meetings for the season. It was understood that the races would settle the championship and for that reason great interest was taken in the events. There was a mile open, a mile handicap and a five mile handicap.

The mile open was the first race and it began at 7:15 p. m. The starters were Kiel, Rucker, Tom Murray, Barr, Montgomery, Birks, Will Murray and Rodgers. Before the race Referee Maroot read the rules governing the race. Each man had to furnish the pace at some point during the mile. Rodgers started out and was the pace maker for a while and then dropped in the rear. When the riders came into the home stretch Rodgers was ahead but Will Murray and Birks were behind him. Murray managed to get in ahead of Rodgers at the finish. The time was 4:26 4-5.

In the mile handicap there were eight starters. It was a good race and Kiel with 100 yards handicap came in first and Rucker with the same handicap, was second, Birks came in third, Montgomery fourth and Murray fifth.

The five mile handicap was the best race of the evening. There were eight starters and they were all out to win. Rodgers was the winner and although the others tried hard to beat him they were unable to do it. In the last mile he took the lead and came in ahead with Murray and Birks chasing him hard. They could not catch him, however, and Birks came in second, Will Murray third and Tom Murray fourth. Will Murray and Rodgers tied the number of points made last night and Rodgers is still two points ahead of Murray.

ANOTHER RACE.

The clerks of the Drobisch Bros. grocery store held a race last evening after the events of the Wheelmen's club. It was a two mile handicap and there were 11 starters. John Arthur was first, George Allen second, Harry Manning third and Fred Stent fourth. The others in the race were Ed Drobisch, Will Young, C. Hart, Dick Wilson, Charles Cameron, Bruce Manning and Arthur Newell.

CAMPAIGN OPENED.

Prohibitionists Held First Meeting Last Night—17 Present.

The Prohibitionists of Mason county opened their campaign last night with an open air meeting held at the corner of King and Monroe streets. There was a small audience present to listen to talks made by Rev. J. H. Hughes, Rev. A. W. Hawkins and D. L. Dunn. The speakers talked in a characteristic manner of the need of abolishing the liquor traffic and the impossibility of doing this by any other than the means of voting it out. Rev. Hughes said that the muzzle of the guns should be pointed directly at the enemy, that men should vote as they pray, that the liquor traffic is wrong and everyone knows it and the only way to get it out of the land is to vote it out.

D. L. Dunn recalled his experience as a district prosecuting attorney and said while serving in this capacity he found most of the crime was easily traced to the liquor traffic. He spoke of the inability of the old parties to protect or restrict the sale of liquor and also spoke of the manner in which the law was being violated in the open gambling houses and other vices. He believes a new party necessary to subdue these vices.

Rev. Hawkins made a short talk and the holding of a big meeting in the W. C. T. U. hall was discussed. The date for the next meeting has not been settled.
